

Yearbooks

The North Babylon Public Library has an assortment of North Babylon High School yearbooks for viewing at the Library.

This collection of yearbooks is a collective work protected by copyright owned by the North Babylon School District. Individual images and compositions may be owned/copyrighted by individual authors. No part of these materials may be reproduced in any medium whatsoever without written and notarized permission of the copyright holder. The names and likenesses of people featured in these publications are protected by the laws of the State of New York.

The Library was not involved with the actual development, printing or distribution of the yearbooks. Many yearbooks may include personal writings and comments of individuals. The writing and content of the yearbooks are not the opinions of the Library. The Library is not responsible for any content within the yearbooks.

One of the most frequent use of yearbooks in the legal world is the identification of potential criminal defendants. Other legal issues are: stalking, domestic violence concerns, safety concerns, privacy concerns, identity changes, defamation and identity theft.

Some photographs may depict minors/underage students.

The yearbook collection may be incomplete.

The collection of yearbooks is for in-house use only. They are non-circulating and are not available for interlibrary loan.

Patrons must request yearbooks at the Reference Desk and leave current ID while viewing yearbooks. Use must be in direct viewing/supervision of the Library staff.

Photographing, scanning, photocopying, cell phone pictures, digitizing, etc. of the yearbook collection is not permitted.

Patrons may not damage or deface the yearbooks in any manner, including: writing in books, cutting or tearing out pages, etc.

The Library cannot mail, fax, e-mail, download or transmit images or pages in any manner from the yearbook collection.

Library staff cannot read content or evaluate content to the patrons from the yearbook collection.
